Performance Summary

The Asia ex Alcohol class rose 1.3% in October, meaning we are now up 1% year-to-date. This gain was driven by a modest recovery in our Chinese internet names – JD.com and Alibaba – together with good performance from SEA, which looks set to expand its ‘Shopee’ ecommerce service to India and various European countries. Meanwhile, our large India weighting, which drove good performance over Q3, became a drag in October as valuations corrected to what we believe are more reasonable levels. Some of our holdings here – for instance IndiaMart and Jubilant – fell on results which, whilst solid, did not satisfy sky-high market expectations. This is quite representative of the picture across our India investments: operating performance continues to be fairly strong and consistent, and indeed this is what we see as the true driver of long-term share price performance
